

PROFESSIONAL PROFILE & BACKGROUND

Timothy is an emerging evaluator, researcher and trainer. He has an education in the natural and environmental sciences, research and teaching. His recent experience in program design and monitoring and evaluation at the City of Cape Town, along with his complementary experience in teaching and research, has led him to pursue a career in monitoring and evaluation. His interests include agriculture, food systems, poverty upliftment, entrepreneurship, education, climate change mitigation and adaptation, socio-ecological systems, and ultimately using M&E to generate social change. He is currently pursuing an MPhil in M&E Methods at Stellenbosch University (CREST).
